

First application for a German child passport

This leaflet provides information on the following, frequent scenario:

The child lives in Ghana with the Ghanaian mother. The father was a German citizen at the time of the child's birth but is not married to the mother.

If you have further questions please contact the Embassy by e-mail: info@accra.diplo.de

I. Recognition of paternity

In order to establish a legal relationship between the father and his child in the above mentioned scenario, a so-called recognition of paternity is required (§ 1592 German civil code). The recognition of paternity is a statement which the father of the child makes before a German authority / notary / consular officer.

This declaration has to be followed by a declaration of consent of the child's mother. Should the father live in Germany, he may give the declaration of the recognition of paternity in the youth office / registrar's office of his place of residence or before a German notary. The mother can then make her statement (declaration of consent) at the German Embassy in Accra.

For the declaration of recognition of paternity / consent in Ghana an appointment with the Embassy is necessary. For this purpose, please contact the Embassy by e-mail: info@accra.diplo.de

Please submit the Questionnaire for recognition of paternity and the original (or a legalized copy if the original cannot be submitted) and two copies of each of the following documents:

- Birth certificate of the child
- Birth certificate of the mother
- Mother's passport
- Father's passport
- Father's German naturalization certificate (if applicable)
- Recognition of paternity (if done separately)
- Affidavit on mother's marital status at moment of child's birth

In some cases a paternity test (DNA analysis) including father, mother and child may be requested by the Embassy.

II. Name declaration

After the recognition of paternity, a so-called name declaration is required in most cases. If the child's father is a resident of Germany, he can make this statement at the registrar's office of his place of residence. Consequently, the mother can make an identical statement at the Embassy.

The name declaration can be made after the recognition of paternity or before applying for a child's passport.

Fees

For certifications the Embassy charges the following fees, payable in GHS when giving the declaration:

Paternity declaration/declaration of consent	100,00 EUR
Name declaration	80,00 EUR
Declaration on joint custody	100,00 EUR
